The Coopers must be getting a little impatient waiting on the slow motion of the court

Once upon a time there lived a perfectly satisfied man in a fairy story. He never got out of it into real life, is the way some men put it

We have stood out for men would be useless for us to say more about it. Usually we all at whatever we keep hammering at but this is one time that we see no need for pursuing the matter further, and we are seriously thinking of holding up awhile and seeing if the run will not come without our saying more about it

How fathers work! Now Mr. Bryan says it was all a mistake and that he has had no accident of any kind, from automobile or any other conveyance. He gives a pretty good report of what he has been doing since Saturday and from that we are inclined to believe that some Florida newspaper man wanted to get in some matter for his string

So long as your neighbor wants to borrow this paper from you for land's sake let him have it. Some day he will send or walk over, just to look through the paper, and you will have left your at the office, or just loaned it to some one else, then he will get mad about it and go off and subscribe for it in order to show you that he can take it. Let them borrow the thing and read it

According to the Emporia Gazette, there are grave yards all over the country filled with people who took pneumonia, or pleurisy, or grip, or influenza by standing out in the rain and wind and sleet, and snow, in the city of Washington trying to see a President officially seated in the chair in the White House. This is all due to the season of the year, and there ought to be some body who had nerve enough to get up and make a move that the date of the inauguration be changed to a month later, so that the trees would be green, the grass green, and the birds singing in the branches. That's the proper season of the year. No one wants got trampled on by ten or fifteen thousand people walking down Pennsylvania Avenue not looking where they are going

CREDIT.

This is the easiest town in the whole country for one to buy things on tick, as we have here to fore said. We don't know any special reason for it but it's a fact. There are youngsters here who have a line of credit that will be the ruin of them for it would run their pas, much less one of their tender years

We think it a mighty fine thing, for one to conduct himself that he can command a good credit. That is a point which every young man should pull for, but it is a thing that can be overdone, and is overdone, in most instances. When one has established a good credit he ought to think about the future. He should stand by that account till it is fully paid, or he ought never to ask for credit again. The only way for one to keep a credit in good running order is to not overwork it. Credit like the human hand, if it is used only so much work, then a rest should be given

The drummers have come back to town, not that they have been away so long till we had run of them for this a paid point. They come in here to get out some place to come in here. I don't know which but they come. They are a good lot of men which to do business and most of the drummers are paid a half of the town. Recently when visiting in order here they really did pick well of it though while trying to find out in other places

Editors are always crying for more time. They want the copy to arrive at an early hour. They want more time to adjust in error. They want more time when the editor comes in to have it out. They want more time when the ball is dropped. They want more time for the editor to get on top of it all. I am sure that editors are two a penny. I am sure and we will find them in these papers with a lot of time and in a hurry and it took me two days to get the information that should have been given us in one. This is a waste of time and it is a little to be a little in a hurry. I am sure that editors are two a penny. We have not the time to look over two copies of the same paper during the run of a busy day

FAULTY LAWS

As it seems that the long pistol will have to go over for a while we here in Alabama have been put to pick of trouble to say nothing of the vast outlay of money incident to buying a pistol with a barrel according to law requiring us to carry a twenty four inch gun instead of the usual pocket size. We had all been lazily trying to comply with the law by getting a gun for which it could stand, when along come another error of the legislative journals that left the pistol situation just as it was. About all the mistakes of that first legislature are in by now. It may be however that it will develop later that there was an error somewhere in the voucher the boys signed for their wages and if there is we move that the error stand, pending the decisions of the higher courts

So far no one has lost his life or been called upon to pay but my money has been drawn from the legislature and yet we would let it try to figure up just how much the errors of the last legislature have cost the people of Alabama

Now the way the people are feeling on the matter just watch the straws and we know how it will be before something wrong is found with the liquor laws of Alabama. The whole crowd is at work to find the flaws in there and my and I must be a few for everything that has been found a real live one has developed the fact that something was lacking in the measure covering it

The New Lamb

A minister of a fashionable church in Newark has always left the practice of strangers to be attended to by the ushers until he read the newspaper article in reference to the matter

Suppose a representative should visit our church, said his wife Wouldn't that be awful?

It would, the minister admitted

The following Sunday evening he noticed a plainly dressed woman in one of the free pews. She sat alone and was clearly not a member of the flock. After the benediction the minister hastened and intercepted her at the door
"How do you do?" he said of tering his hand. I am very glad to have you with us."

"Thank you," replied the young woman

"I hope we may see you often in our church," he went on. "We are always glad to welcome new faces."

"Yes, sir,"
"Do you live in this parish?"
The girl looked blank.
"If you will give me your address, my wife will call on you some evening."

"You wouldn't need to go far in," said the young woman. "I'm your wife's cook."

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The Women's Home Mission Society of the First Street Methodist Church met yesterday and elected officers for the coming year

The list of officers were respected with the exception of president Mrs. Hunter who has held this office for several years.
Mrs. Arthur Malone who is among the most enthusiastic workers of this band was chosen to preside over the Society for the next year

Mrs. Hunter, who is now a terminal case of cancer in which she has made the Society a splendid official and received the unanimous thanks of every member for her excellent services

ciety has been the means of accomplishing a great deal of good in the church and for the cause in which they are engaged and with Mrs. Malone at its head its good work will go on and not be allowed to lag in any of its undertakings or what is expected of it if it has in her power to prevent it. Mrs. Malone is one of the Society's best workers and advisors and at the end of her term of office it is expected to find a record unsurpassed by the Society in any previous year
